DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-7, 9-14, 16-20 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lian et al. (US 5,804,969 A).

With respect to claims 1, 11, 16, 17, 19 and 20, Lian discloses an RF coil assembly comprising (Figure 1): a pair of RF coils movable with respect to one another (#16a, #16b, #18a and #18b wherein the coil pair #18 is movable with respect to the other pair in order to conform the area to be examined and to suit patient's anatomy), a first inductor assembly in series with one RF coil; a second inductor assembly in series with the another RF coil (Figure 9, inductor L6 connected for each pair; Column 6, lines 45-51); and wherein the inductor assemblies are configured to have a mutual inductance opposite in polarity and substantially equal in magnitude to a mutual inductance of the pair of RF coils (Column 4, lines 39-67).

3. With respect to claims 2 and 12, Lian discloses the inductor assemblies are configured to cancel the mutual inductance of the pair of RF coils with varying relative position of the pair of RF coils as long as the first and second inductor assemblies overlap (Column 4, lines 39-67, Figure 1, coil pair #12 overlap with coil pair #18).

4. With respect to claims 3 and 13, Lian discloses the RF coils in the pair of RF coils are movable along at least one of an X-axis, a Y-axis, and a Z-axis (Column 6, lines 26-51).
5. With respect to claims 4, 14 and 22, Lian discloses the RF coils in the pair of RF coils are rotatable about an axis of rotation (Column 6, lines 26-51).
6. With respect to claim 5, Lian discloses the RF coils in the pair of RF coils are translatable along an imaging plane (Column 6, lines 26-51).
7. With respect to claim 6, Lian discloses the inductor assemblies collectively have a mutual inductance opposite in phase to that of the pair of RF coils (Column 4, lines 39-67).
8. With respect to claim 7, Lian discloses the mutual inductance of the inductor assemblies varies with RF coil positioning in a manner to cancel the mutual inductance of the pair of RF coils (Column 4, lines 39-67).
9. With respect to claim 9, Lian discloses the inductance of the inductor assemblies is such that coupling of the pair of RF coils is reduced regardless of coil position (Abstract).
10. With respect to claims 10 and 18, see rejection of claims 1 and 9 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

11. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
12. Claims 8, 15, 21 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lian et al. (US 5,804,969 A) in view of Roemer et al. (US 4,825,162).

Art Unit: 2859

With respect to claims 8, 15, 21 and 23, Lian discloses the claimed invention as stated above in paragraphs 2-9 above except for having a mutual inductance of the indicator assemblies decreases as a distance between the pair of RF coils increases and increases as the distance between the pair of RF coils decreases. However, Roemer discloses a mutual inductance of the indicator assemblies decreases as a distance between the pair of RF coils increases and increases as the distance between the pair of RF coils decreases (Columns 3-4, lines 57-68 and 1-59 respectively). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a mutual inductance magnitude depending on the distance between the coils as shown by Roemer with Lian's RF coil assembly for the purpose of minimizing the mutual inductance between the coil pairs as disclosed by Roemer (Column 3, lines 57-60).

Conclusion

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The additional prior art cited in the PTO 892 discloses RF coils with minimized mutual inductance.
